RE: LLumar® Safety and Security Films – Safety Glazing Testing

~~ADRIANA~~
J. WRIGHT

Many LLumar Safety and Security films have undergone safety glazing testing. During this testing, the films are applied to annealed (non-safety) glass. The tests are conducted to the ANSI Z97.1 and CPSC (16CFR 1201) standards for safety glazing materials used in buildings.

The attached shows the films that have been tested to the above standards, the annealed glass thickness used in the test, and the ANSI and CPSC Classification.

All tests are conducted by an independent, International Accreditation Services accredited testing laboratory for these test standards.

An up-to-date list of films passing the ANSI Z97.1 and CPSC tests and test reports are available at:
