I'm glad the pool location is cleared up. As for the metal building, it was originally built on a tract of land that is designated a timber farm and used for storing equipment to maintain that farm. It was only through a recombination we had done a few years back that the barn ended up on my property. You can see the property line that was abandoned on the most recent survey on the GIS viewer. Thanks for the help and let me know what we need to do.

Received, thank you!

Now that the pool location is clarified, it looks like the 41' x 56 metal building was built without permits in the last 7 years.

Please complete the attached paperwork for the accessory structure.

You will need engineered plans & the building fee will be doubled because it was built without being inspected along the way.

Sincerely,
